

Changes

1. On the Menu page I intended to make an image carousel with pictures of different dishes at Pamela's Diner. Unfortunately, I couldn't figure out a way to implement this without major bugs so I scrapped the idea and instead implemented a gallery of food picture.
2. On the Reviews page, I planned to list out the reviews in a list fashion, one after the other. However, after realizing most of the reviews were relatively short, I decided to put in a grid format, where there were three reviews in each row. This shortens the left-to-right reading span, improving the readability for the user.
3. I had planned to include social media icons in the footer but this created quite a few formatting issues which I could not figure out in time. I decided to move the social media icons to Contact page in the contact information table.
